Introduce Thai cuisine

When asking to describe Thai food, one usually says “It’s hot and spicy.” Actually there is no single adjective to replace that basic characteristic taste of real Thai food which comes from a mixture of salt and pepper, garlic and coriander, onion and ginger, turmeric and peppercorn and other spices pounded together into favourable qualities.

This aromatic combination includes a large number of herbs, roots, flowers, and even leaves, and also some other essential ingredients with coconut milk or cream blends to produce a smooth, creamy base and offsetting-spiciness. These include a colourful ornament to design an unforgettable counterpart.

A Typical Thai meal consists of steamed rice with many different dishes. The dishes are not courses, and they are all served at the same time, take a spoonful one dish with some rice and another dish with the same rice, enjoy the different taste and texture of each dish.

We have attended to present balance representation authentic Thai dishes. We hope you will enjoy the experience of Thai cuisine and return to work your way through our extensive menu.

(We will include 10% service charge for tables)
